

Imagine

Imagine New Life as a group of committed Christians who are not only living out the good news of Jesus Christ in their own lives but are trained and equipped to share the good news about Jesus starting in our community and extending to the world.

Imagine

Imagine living out God's radical love by not putting our trust in the riches of this world and instead trusting God to faithfully provide all that we need. Instead of seeing how much we can take, we bewilder the world as we give to God first without worry of our money, schedules, and self.

Imagine

Imagine people truly knowing God and growing in faith by routinely setting time aside for studying scripture and prayer, individually and with others. We joyfully and regularly come to worship to confess our sins, receive forgiveness and offer our praise to God.

Imagine

Imagine small groups are engaged in relationship building centered on bible study, church fellowship and common needs. We go beyond our established circles to reach out to others, of all ages and build friendships one conversation at a time. No one is too dirty to be hugged, no one is too poor to be asked to give of their gifts, no one is too quiet to be unnoticed and no one is too sinful to experience the community of New Life.

Imagine

Imagine people having a deep need to live out their faith and are empowered by the Holy Spirit to serve the challenging needs of a struggling community. People are unable to sit still and want to be able to see where they can be connected to God's work with their hands. Wherever families and individuals struggle, we support and encourage, because there is poverty, we provide food and comfort, because there is loneliness and abuse, we become a friend and advocate and when people are searching and confused we provide them the guidance and direction to live upright lives for God.

Imagine

Imagine, in a society where it is common to see great divisions in age, race and status, we come together as a community; the young and the old, the majority and the minority, the rich and the poor; to listen and share together faith stories, read together God's word, pray together and share our lives together. As a church community created by God for God, we gladly receive and accept all who visit and extend ourselves to help each person on their faith journey.
